FRAMING

• They are gifted children who have learning challenges

• NOT Special Needs children with some strengths
We understand a DEFICIT MODEL

• We have…
  • Federal law for special needs
  • Compassion
  • Systems for fixing things

But…

they are Bright, not Broken

(2011) Kennedy (Author), Banks (Author), & Grandin (Contributor)
“Treatment is not just fixing what is broken but nurturing what is best.” (Seligman & Csikszentmihalyi, 2000)
ASK QUESTIONS

• At Home

• At School
THE HOME

• Parents as advocates
• Not adversaries
ASK or OBSERVE your CHILD

• What are you good at?
• What do you like to do?
• What’s hard for you?
• What do you feel like you need?
THE CHILD’S RELATIONSHIPS

• Which teachers do you like?
  • Why do you like them?

• Is there a grown-up at school that you like best?
  • Why do you like them?

• Do you feel like you have friends at school?
  • Who are your friends?
  • Why do you like them?

• Are there other people at school that you like?
  • Who are they and why do you like them?
AT SCHOOL

• Invest
  • Build Relationships
  • Pay it forward
    • What do you need? How can I help?
    • Quiet compassionate gestures – food, coffee, tea, tissues

• Ask questions – don’t tell or demand
ASK the TEACHER for their HELP

• What do you feel intuitively, not so much as a report card, that my child is good at?
• What do you feel my child struggles with?
• Have you noticed any circumstances where my child really shines?
• Have you noticed any circumstances where my child is struggling?
• Do you have any ideas how I could help?
• Do you have ideas about who could help?
ANYTHING HAPPENING AT SCHOOL?

• Student’s strengths and struggles?
• Should we have an evaluation done?
AFTER AN EVALUATION

• Communication

• Relationships

• The types of counseling strategies necessary to help them realize their potential.
PART III - WHAT WORKS

• Parents as advocates, not advisories
• Recognition of both strengths and challenges
• Attention to giftedness first
• Attention to challenges
  • Using strengths to support challenges
  • Keeping it interesting
PART V. WHAT WORKS

- Leveraging strengths for skill development
- Connecting child to content
- Allowing self-expression
NURTURING STRENGTHS, INTERESTS, & TALENTS

• Explore all kinds of normal, weird, wacky and wonderful
  • places
  • things
  • people
HOW TO NURTURE STRENGTHS, INTERESTS, & TALENTS

• Training in interest area
  • After school
  • Weekends
  • School vacations

• You name it. It’s out there!
REAL WORLD PROBLEM SOLVING

• Find a problem in an area of interest
• Create a product or service to help fix the problem
• Use research to understand the problem and make the product or service

PRINCIPLES for all ACTIVITIES

1. “in the manner of the professionals”

2. in their “zone of proximal development”
HYBRIDIZE to their sweet spot

• Interest + Requirement

• Strength area + Requirement

• Creativity + Requirement

and SUPPORT
FIND OUT ABOUT…

• Your child’s area of special need.
• Learn how to support it
• Seek out groups that support the special need
PROVIDE A PLACE TO CREATE

• Provide raw materials
  • Blank paper, Scraps, Tubes, Wires…
  • Tools
  • Resources

• Not kits!
YOUR ROLES

• Guide on the side, not Sage on the stage
• Scheduler
• Taxi
• Gatherer of choices
• Supporter
• Affirmer
• Listener
